Senate Passes Bill To Give Governor More Spending Power

AUSTIN (AP) The legislative tempo picked up today as the Senate passed three bills to allow the governor to spend up to $500,000 in the next several months to meet financial emergencies in state government.

With only 12 days remaining in the 30-day special session, the Senate also passed to the House bills that would:

Establish the Texas Film Commission as a permanent state agency in the governor's office to clear up funding problems the commission has had since it was created by an executive order.

—Exempt aviation schools and instructors from the 1971 Proprietary School Act, which was written primarily so that the Texas Education Agency could regulate business schools.

—Reduce premiums for many coastal residents who are forced to buy windstorm and catastrophe insurance at higher than normal rates.

Earlier, a Senate committee quickly approved bills to pay off the state's election debts and to build an $8 million school at Fort Worth for the mentally retarded.

CHS Girls on the Bottle, But for Two Good Reasons

Members of the Senior Girls Club of Corsicana High School are collecting glass bottles and other glass itmes to be sold to Chattanooga Glass Co..

The bottle collecting being done by the girls will serve a two-fold purpose. It will help clean up the community and also raise money for the Senior Girls Club.

"This is really helping the community more than the club," said Karen Smith, one of the club members. She said the group is picking up a lot of junked bottles while actually getting very little in return. She said several of the girls recently sold 630 pounds of bottles to the glass plant for $6.30.

The girls, who have been collecting the glass for about a week now added this is a good opportunity for area residents to get rid of old bottles and glass and, at the same time, help a worthy cause.

To have bottles picked up by the club, citizens may call Rosemary Holy at 2-1740 or Miss Smith at 4-3987.

Not His Fault, Says President

Nixon Warns Of More Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today "there will be no presidential tax increase" in 1973 but argued that "congressional overspending" might make one necessary.

Holding a 40-minute news conference in his Oval Office, Nixon also declared that Vietnam peace talks are "in a sensitive stage."

And he said that his search for the quickest possible settlement will in no way be affected by the fact that a presidential election will be held Nov. 7.

Nixon, in discussing his tax policy, said he will rarely visit the campaign trail until Congress adjourns because he wants to remain in Washington to "fight the battle against rising spending."

He promised a succession of veto messages aimed at last-minute legislation that exceed his budget goals.

The President was first asked for a response to charges by some Democrats that his administration has been corrupt.

He responded by listing such charges made by Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, and said some presidential advisers had suggested he respond in kind.

He said he rejected such advice because "I'm not going to dignify such comments."

As for what McGovern has been saying, Nixon declared "I think responsible members of the Democratic party will be turned off by this kind of campaign."

Nixon also fielded questions about the U.S.-Soviet grain deal and the bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters at the Watergate building.

Addressing himself to allegations that grain exporters profited from advance information about the $750 million grain agreement, Nixon said the FBI was looking into the matter and asserted, "if there has been any impropriety, any illegality, we want to know."

He pictured the grain accord as beneficial to the nation, saying it would add a billion dollars to farm income, create thousands of jobs, save taxpayers $200 million in grain storage charges and help ease the country's continuing balance of payments crisis.

As for the Watergate affair, Nixon repeated that he had no personal knowledge of what was going on there and said he is convinced no principal figures of his campaign committee were party to the bugging.

Recalling his probe of former State Department official Alger Hiss as a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Nixon said that inquiry was "basically a Sunday-school exercise" compared to the FBI's Watergate investigation.

Deadline Friday To Register To Vote

The deadline to register to vote in the November election is Friday, according to Navarro County Tax Assessor-Collector Jerry S. Scott.

He said county residents may register in his office at the Navarro County Courthouse between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Friday. (See editorial, page 6-B)

Scott noted that anyone who has registered in Navarro County since Oct. 1, 1971, is qualified to vote in the November election and does not need to register this year. He said people who have moved from one precinct to another should note the change with the county tax assessor-collector's office.

Scott also said anybody may register for a member of his immediate family.

Nicholson Decision Goes to State Court

By MARY-LOVE BIGONY
Special Correspondent

AUSTIN—Arguments in the case of the State of Texas on Relation of William J. McKie vs. Secretary of State Bob Bullock were presented Thursday morning in the Texas Court of Civil Appeals here.

Following the arguments, McKie said he expects the court to deliver the decision "in about a week."

The clerk for the Court of Civil Appeals said decisions will be handed down by all three justices who include Chief Justice John C. Phillips, Associate Justice Bob Shannon and Associate Justice Trueman O'Quinn. The period of time between oral arguments and the date the decision is delivered is not known at this time, the clerk said, adding that it varies from case to case.

Pat Beard, attorney for plaintiff, and Mrs. Mary Jo Carroll, attorney for Nicholson, presented arguments in the case, appealed from the Sept. 6 ruling by 167th District Court Judge Thomas Blackwell in Austin.

The suit seeks a permanent injunction to enjoin the Secretary of State from certifying Donald Nicholson as 13th District Judge.

Arguments concerned a clause in the Texas Constitution which states a candidate for district judge must be licensed to practice law and must have engaged in the practice "for four years next preceding the election."

In his opening statement to the court, Beard said Nicholson wrote a letter to the Texas Bar Association in 1970 saying he had not practiced law for three years and requesting status as an inactive member of the bar. Beard further stated Nicholson paid his bar association dues only after the suit was filed following his nomination.

Beard contended a district judge candidate must have practiced law continuously for four years preceding the election, and Beard said Nicholson's statement in a lower court hearing that he had given legal advice to friends and relatives during this time did not fulfill this requirement. He said Nicholson was a rancher by profession during this time, and any law practice he engaged in was subordinate.

"The knowledge you have of the law," Beard said, "has to be updated in order to have any meaning."

Mrs. Carroll called the suit "the aftermath of a bitter election campaign" and told the court Nicholson "has more jury trial experience than the incumbent." She told the court Nicholson was financially unable to pay his bar dues in 1970 but wrote to the bar in 1971 asking to become current. She said Nicholson "did not know he was in arrears in his dues until after the suit was filed, and was actually in arrears less than six months."

"The payment of bar dues is not a Constitutional requirement to qualify a person for district judge," Mrs. Carroll told the court. She said Nicholson had offered legal services to his father and other persons in exchange for services. "He was truly rendering legal services to persons who wanted to compensate him," she said.

Closing her arguments, Mrs. Carroll told the court the removal of Nicholson's name from the ballot in the November election "would deny the voters of Navarro County the privilege of voting for the candidate of their choice. The government can have no compelling interest in keeping his name off the ballot."

Streets Viewed For Revenue Sharing Priority

Now that it knows how much money Corsicana will receive under the new federal revenue sharing program — $229,048 — the City is viewing street improvements as first on the priority of uses to be made of the money.

Corsicana learned Tuesday that it will receive $202,141 and should receive its first increment (just how much is unknown at this time) before the month is out.

"We are going to set it up as a separate account—Revenue Sharing Fund—not co-mingling it with our General Fund so that the City Commission will know just what it will be spent for, and of course, the Commission will decide, "City Manager Jack Russell said Wednesday.

"At the present, the thinking of the City Commission is that we will use our money to make street repairs and sealcoat streets, at least for the first year," Russell said.

Corsicana still doesn't know how it was apportioned a larger amount of money than had first been indicated to the city would be forthcoming. Until Tuesday, the only "definite" word previously had been Corsicana could anticipate getting about $155,000.

Russell said he understood the federal government "used a formula based on needs of a city, and I guess our needs were greater than some other places of the same size."

Tower Coming To Corsicana

U.S. Senator John Tower will bring his campaign for re-election Oct. 19 to Corsicana as part of a campaign tour he is making of Texas by special bus.

Sen. Tower's Washington office notified Mrs. William B. Robinson and Norman E. (Buddy) Shaw, co-chairmen of the Tower for Senate committee in Navarro County, that the Senator will be in town from 4 to 5 p.m.

As of today, the county co-chairmen had not decided on a location for a planned coffee reception and said it may be decided to have the Senator greet Navarro County supporters from his campaign bus at a downtown location.

Tower will be accompanied by his wife, Lou, and his mother, Mrs. Joe Z. Tower.

"We are thrilled Sen. Tower is coming to Corsicana in behalf of his campaign as he has been here in the past for dedication functions only," Mrs. Robinson said.

Third Candidate Files for Tax Collector Post

Ernest Stokes, 60, city tax appraiser, has become the newest candidate to file for the office of City Tax Assessor-Collection to be filled in a special election Nov. 14.

He filed Friday with City Secretary Nelda Neal.

Stokes thus becomes the fourth aspirant to the vacancy created by the death of Charles (Jakie) Pugh, who had been elected to the office in the April, 1971 city election.

Stokes was employed by the City of Corsicana to act as an appraiser in the fall of 1971. He has been a resident of Corsicana the past 14 years and lived in the county 52 years.

Plan 'Is What Corsicana Needs,' Says City Manager

By BETTY JEAN CLAY
City Editor

At least 225 residents were told Thursday night by City Manager Jack Russell Corsicana's five year capital improvement plan isn't perfect, doesn't cater to special interests and won't satisfy everyone "but it is what Corsicana needs."

This is the consensus, Manager Russell said, of more than 100 people who have had a hand in formulating the plan—professional consultants, advisory committees of citizens, city elected officials and the professional staff of the municipality.

"The Plan is like good medicine; it may taste bad, but it sure does a lot of good," Russell capsuled the proposal outlined in the session at the Public Library lasting almost 3½ hours. The meeting room was filled, necessitating bringing in additional chairs, and the crowd overflowed around the back, side and library lobby.

(An informational fact sheet distributed so those present could "follow" visually as Manager Russell read the brochure is printed in total in today's edition on the Daily Sun Opinion Page for edification of readers.)

At the outset of his presentation of the Plan, Russell acknowledged candidly: "I am here to tell you like it is—it is not perfect." Of necessity, the Plan represents compromise, but comprises, he stressed, which in the end will "result in the greatest benefit for the largest number of people" for the costs required.

As the plan isn't perfect, Manager Russell acknowledged, it obviously won't satisfy everyone. And, in admitting from the outset it won't "satisfy", he proceeded to cite who won't be satisfied and reasons why.

The Plan won't satisfy:

—The City Commission and professional city staff "because many improvements had to be left out because we simply could not afford them."

—The builders and sub-division developers because it won't build streets for them or extend utilities in broad un-developed tracts for which they would be the principal beneficiaries.

—The industries of the community "because it will certainly result in substantial increases in their water and sewer bills."

—The "citizens of low income" because they "will have to pay additional fees and taxes and still be left with a disproportionate share of unpaved streets".

—The "people who control blocs of votes because no attempt was made to solicit their support in return for any special consideration in the plan."

"It is a compromise plan based on sound engineering and planning by professionals with much consideration given to input by citizens from all areas," Russell said.

He reminded the large turnout that nothing that is truly great has ever been achieved "in a Democratic society except by compromise."

To bear this out, he pointed to the United States Constitution, a controversial document in the making, one that did not satisfy everyone, but represented a compromise. "No one was satisfied at the time it was written," Russell noted, but he reminded that it since has been ranked as the third greatest document of the history of Western civilization, ranking after the Bible and the Magna Carta of England.

"The Constitution is great because it does not cater to any special group, and I believe we have such a plan to be presented before you tonight," Russell said.

"It is a plan that provides the greatest amount of benefits for the largest number of people and equitably provides for everyone to share in the costs of the plan in proportion to the benefits to be derived from the plan.

"It is not what any individuals or special interest groups would like to have—but it is what Corsicana needs," Russell declared.

Russell said he "could brag on the plan because it is not my plan," pointing out it was three years in the making.

"It represents the efforts of hundreds of citizens who cared more about the future of Corsicana than their own selfish interest," Russell avowed with obvious pride. He paused at that point in the presentation to tell the group he had been "amazed" at the support manifest by all segments of the community, and particularly the senior citizens living on fixed incomes, frequently only a social security check.

Older citizens, he reminded, can remember an era when Corsicana was "more progressive than it has been in recent years and they liked what they remembered."

"The early leaders of Corsicana had courage—their courage built a great city—we should not let them down," he entreated.

Russell told the meeting that at this point in time Corsicana is standing on the threshold of "a great new era."

"What we do here tonight can well determine whether we move forward into that era with high hopes or slide backwards into a city of poverty and squalor," he emphasized.

At that point, the City Manager referred the audience to the information sheets and urged citizens to follow along as he read what the plan proposes and typical questions proposed by the public in advance—and answered in the brochure.

Attention was directed to two huge maps of the city. On one were lines signifying water and sewer system improvements and their locations and on the other were colored lines pinpointing improvements of streets "to get us out of the mud and connect paving where presently there are gaps to move traffic to and from highways and to and from town," lines locating where drainage improvements will be made to creeks and inadequate bridges, and pinpointing seven parks designated for improvements to make them of more use and enjoyment by citizens.

These seven parks include those at Lake Halbert and Lake Corsicana at Powell; East Corsicana Park, Community Park, Jester Memorial Park, Southwest Park (commonly referred to as "Nature Park", and Allyn Park at the foot of S. Beaton St. It is proposed to build hard surface roads to and through East and Southwest parks, and additional facilities such as tennis courts in parks which presently don't have this recreational facility. Russell stressed that the City will put improvements that won't require expensive maintenance and will seek matching federal funds.

Three areas of town were pinpointed for drainage improvement of creek channels to prevent future flooding of homes by obstructions which back water up and prevent it from moving on out of town. These are a continuation of channel work on Post Oak creek from the area of N. Hwy. 75 and the Rock Island railroad along its meanders on the East Side on the outer perimeter of town; a continuation of channel work on Town Branch of Mesquite Creek in Southeast Corsicana; and continuation of channel clearing of Post Oak Creek to the north and west from Community Park.

Congratulations to Barney Allbritton, E. 3208 Beverly Drive in Corsicana who caught a twenty-two pound Oppelousas Catfish on a rod and reel. He was fishing at Cedar Creek Lake and was using blood bait.Wow! That must have been fun to land a fish that large on a rod and reel. Barney's fishing buddy Dan Crocker of Kerens didn't have a bad day himself. He caught a six pound channel Catfish. It all happened last Thursday morning around 10:00 a.m.

I didn't catch a fish much to my sorrow but I did get one of the biggest laughs I've had in quite some time. I got to yell STOP THE PRESS! I just happened to walk in the office as they were bringing some papers in fresh off the press and naturally I picked up one and turned to the page where my column appears. I really got weak in the knees ....surely I was seeing things. In place of my picture above my column was one of Ann Landers. Only a few were printed but if you received one maybe you will want to keep it as a souvineir as I did. I went back to the camera room and smilingly told them if they ever got in a hurry again and got the picture of the Freestone County Sheriff instead of Mine I'd SUE. Smile!

County Accepts Bid Sheriff Dept. Car

By ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

Navarro County Commissioners Monday afternoon voted in favor of purchasing a third new car for the Navarro County Sheriff's Department to replace older vehicles used by the deputies.

The afternoon meeting was much shorter than the session earlier Monday morning in which the Commissioners voted in favor of holding an election in Angus on Oct. 28 to determine whether or not the people of Angus can operate businesses selling beer and wine for off-premise consumption. The election will be from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The Commissioners agreed to purchase a 1973 Plymouth Fury which complies with police specifications. The commissioners voted during a commission meeting Sept. 14 to purchase two Plymouths. All three cars will be ordered from the Hervey Motor Company, which submitted a low bid of $3,289 per vehicle.

Other business besides the beer election matter Monday morning included a request by Wyvonne Putman, curator of the Pioneer Village, that Navarro County assisted financially in restoring the prairie schooner, the buggy, the stagecoach and the covered wagon at the Pioneer Village. She also said buildings at the museum site in Jester Park are badly in need of leveling. The Commissioners agreed to take the request under consideration.

Another business item was opening of bids for a cryostat device for Navarro County Memorial Hospital. The only two bids were $2,424 submitted by Curtin Scientific and $2,572.67 by Fisher Scientific. The Commissioners voted to turn the bids over to the Navarro County Memorial Hospital Board of Direcors for consideration.

The Commissioners also accepted low bids on other hospital equipment and services.

The firm selected to clean and waterproof the older parts of the hospital building is Texas Clean and Water Proofing Company of Waco, which submitted a low bid of $14,340.95.

A low bid of $1,213.70 for a bacterial hood was accepted from Scientific Products. The only other bid submitted was $1,826.25 by Fisher Scientific.

The Gilbert X-Ray Company submitted a low bid of $16,100 for a mammography unit which includes a patient stool.

The only bid submitted for an auto sampler, $1,000 by Beckman Instruments Inc., was also accepted by the Commissioners.

The Commissioners also approved a plat submitted by Ernest Fletes III. The plat involves a 55.18 acre tract in the Robertson County School League Survey, abstract No. 674.

Judge Kenneth Douglas announced that he and the County Commissioners had minutes earlier held a separate meeting in his private office with Texas Highway Department Resident Engineer Jack London and L.E. Clark of the department's legal services division. The meeting, Douglas said, involved discussion of provisions of right of way as they apply to farm-to-market roads.

Angus Beer Election Due

By ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

An election to determine whether or not the residents of the newly incorporated Town of Angus will vote in favor of the sale of beer and wine for off-premise consumption was set for Oct. 28 by the Navarro County Commissioners meeting in the commissioners' courtroom this morning.

Local attorney Julius Jacobs appeared before the commissioners this morning speaking in favor of allowing the election to be held. He said that if the town does vote to permit the sale of beer and wine, the action would be a step in keeping money in Navarro County. He said revenue from the sales will provide for parks and other things needed by the town.

Discussion on the election began when Navarro County Judge Kenneth Douglas read a letter signed by Jacobs saying an attached petition included names of Angus residents wishing for the election to be called. The letter asked that the commissioners issue an order calling the election for Oct. 28. It noted that the reason for this date is that there will be another election on Oct. 28 in Angus to determine whether or not a one per cent sales tax shall be collected on sales in that town.

"An election necessarily entails expenses and if both elections can be held on the same date, this would be advantageous economically as well as for the convenience of the residents," Jacobs said in the letter.

Douglas said there may be a legal problem about the two items coming up at the same time with the same election judges.

Jacobs suggested that Burt Jones, who was in charge of the election for city officials in Angus, be allowed to conduct the election on the beer and wine sales issue. Douglas asked for an alternate and Jacobs said he would provide the commissioners court a list of qualified residents from which to choose an alternate.

The commissioners unanimously approved the motion by Pct. 2 Comm. Arlon Simmons to call the election for off-premise consumption in Angus. Douglas said the election will be held from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Oct. 28 at the Angus Community Center.

The commissioners recessed until 1:30 p.m. today.

City Tax Roll Grows

Corsicana's 1972 tax rolls as submitted to the city this week by the Board of Equalization amount to $95,676,442 based on using 100 per cent of value for tax assessment purposes.

At 100 per cent collection on tax bills rendered, this would produce ad valorem taxes of $746,276.93 on the tax rate of 78 cents per $100 valuation.

City Finance Director Don Lunday Thursday pointed out, however, that Corsicana in recent years has never collected 100 per cent of the taxes due in a given year. The collection rate usually ranges from 92 to 95 per cent.

In 1971, when Corsicana was assessing property at 62½ per cent, the tax rolls were certified to the City Commission by the Board of Equalization at $58,125,690. At 100 per cent collection of taxes due on last year's rate of $1.25 on the $100 valuation, this theoretically would produce revenues of $726,597.86.

"When you convert the $58,125,690 on the 1971 tax rolls at 62½ per cent assessment ratio to the 100 per cent ratio being used this year, it amounts to $93,001,104; so Corsicana's actual growth on the tax rolls is $2,675,338," Lunday said. This takes into consideration also all construction which occurred in 1971 and went on the tax rolls as of Jan. 1, 1972.

Ennis Riding Club Schedules Show

City Buys Year's Supply of Fuel

Corsicana bought a year's supply of fuel and oils for the city's fleet of vehicles this week on a best bid basis from two of five firms submitting quotations.

At Tuesday's meeting, the City Commission accepted the low bid of Mobil Oil Co. for gasoline and diesel fuel and the bid of Humble Oil & Refining Co., for motor oil and hydraulic oil.

Mobil's low bid on supplying 105,000 gallons of gasoline was 20.8 cents per gallon or $21,840 total and its bid on supplying 12,000 gallons of diesel fuel was 13.5 cents per gallon, or $1,620 total.

Humble's bid on 1,000 gallons of motor oil was 90 cents a gallon for total of $900, and its bid on 1,000 gallons of hydraulic oil was 51.5 cents per gallon for a total of $515.

State Supreme Court Confirms Corsicana Case

The Texas Supreme Court this week refused a petition for writ of error and found no reversible error in a civil case originating in Navarro County styled Laura C. Fortson vs. J.A. Burns.

The suit was originally filed in 13th District Court as J.A. Burns vs. Laura Fortson and Doris Ann Fortson on Aug. 31, 1971 as suit for injunction concerning a contract on a loan.

Kerens Grants Phone Franchise

By JIM BUSH
Golden Circle Reporter

KERENS—There was considerable discussion at the Kerens City Council meeting Tuesday night over phone rates, dialing problems and a franchise asked for by the Gulf States United Telephone Company.

Three representatives from Gulf States United, Robert Taylor, Fred Weaver and B.C. Trammell, presented the franchise request, discussed the town's phone service and answered questions.

The council finally agreed to grant the franchise to the company by a vote of 2-1. It was granted on the condition that the time the city has to notify the phone company of any damages or injuries done by the company be increased from 48 hours to 72 hours in which to notify by phone and 5 days to notify with a written description.

After a discussion with the phone representatives the problem of making direct distance dials from Kerens, Gulf representative Taylor said, "All Kerens residents will be billed direct distance dialing rates even if they use the operator." This is in effect until a workable toll service is in operation.

In further business, Councilman Walter Lang explained the procedures and prices street repair contractor John Martin of Malakoff would use if granted a contract to repair Kerens' streets. According to information presented to the council, cost of repairing an 18-foot street for one block would be $300. Cost for a 50-foot lot would be $25; a 75-foot lot, $37.50, and a 100-foot lot, $50.

Lang was asked to contact Martin and see if he would agree to repair each street on an 18-foot basis.

A motion to pay existing bills was passed unanimously.

The council agreed to set a $3 per trailer sewage charge on mobile homes in a Kerens trailer park.

City superintendent of water and sewage, Ernest Keil, was granted a two-week vacation with the weeks to be staggered.

Navarro County Humane Society Plans Dog Show

A Childrens' Dog Show for mixed-breed dogs has been scheduled by the Navarro County Humane Society for 2 p.m. Oct. 21 at a vacant lot across the street from the Navarro Mall Shopping Center in Corsicana, according to Mrs. William Creasy, secretary.

"There will be about six or seven contest categories, and ribbons will be awarded to second and third place winners and prizes to first place winners," she said.

Corsicana Mayor Sue Youngblood has volunteered to be one of the contest judges and two other judges will be selected soon, Mrs. Creasy said.

The club secretary said Corley's Funeral Home will provide a tent at the dog show site.

Children who wish to enter their mixed-breed dogs in the contest, Mrs. Creasy said, must be sure the dogs received their rabies vaccination. All dogs must be wearing a leash and collar, and the owner must be able to keep his dog under control at all times during the show.

She said further information about the dog show is available by writing to the Navarro County Humane Society, Inc., P.O. Box 1732, Corsicana, Tex.

DAWSON — A representative of General Telephone Company attended the Dawson City Council meeting Tuesday night to ask for a rate increase from $5.75 to $7.45 per month for private lines and also request an increase on business lines.

The council tabled the request in order to discuss the matter more and get a consensus from Dawson residents before making a decision on the increase. A meeting was called for Nov. 6, at which time the phone representative will return to discuss the increase.

In further business, the council passed an ordinance to have garbage picked up in Dawson twice weekly at a charge of $2 per month per customer.

Cotton Bales Destroyed

A mass of twisted tin and charred bales of cotton still smolders as men with fire hoses spray into the thick cloud of smoke. The receiving area of the Ennis Compress Company building was destroyed by the blaze, but a firewall prevented the flames from spreading to the area where the ginning machinery is kept. Damage to the cotton was estimated at $750,000. (Sun Photo by Rob Meckel)

Gin Fire Damage Put at $750,000

By ROB MECKEL
Sun Staff Writer

Tons of baled cotton ready for shipping were charred into puffs of ash and many more damaged by fire and water here Tuesday in a $750,000 fire at the Ennis Compress Company.

The gin superintendent, Roy McBrayer estimated that about 4,000 bales of cotton located in the 35,000 square foot receiving area of the gin were destroyed in the blaze. He said the weighing and sampling devices in the receiving area were also destroyed and it would be at least several days before the gin could go back into operation.

McBrayer said the cause of the fire is not known at this time. He said the receiving section of the huge building was suddenly ablaze at 10:15 a.m.during the break period and the fire was out of control before it could be stopped in the early stages.

"It just happened so fast," he said, "nobody could figure out what it was all about. The sprinkler system went off perfectly, it just couldn't control it."

McBrayer said nobody was reported injured as a result of the fire.

Firemen from Ennis, Corsicana, Ferris, Palmer and other nearby communities assisted in bringing the fire under control at about 11:30 a.m. McBrayer said a firewall in the huge building separated the receiving area from the gin area and that it was this firewall which kept the fire from blazing on into the section of the building where the ginning equipment is located.

Smoke continued to emit from the fire site late Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning and firemen remained at the scene to prevent any further fire outbreaks.

McBrayer said about 24,000 bales of cotton were housed in the section of the building which was destroyed.

Namath a Prude? Say It Ain't So

Joe Namath, a prude! I couldn't believe it.

Like many of America's sports nuts, I had read and believed in Joe Namath's image. The press had me convinced that this young man lived a 36-hour day as the most swinging bachelor who ever suited up for football.

I believed that a giant tote board would be required to tally his conquests. I believed that he gargled with Johnny Walker Red to wake up in time for practice. I believed that his phones were tapped by Pope Pete because his friends were unsavory characters.

But when I heard him confess to Merv Griffin that he, Joltin' Joe Namath, Super Jet, had declined editor Helen Gurley Brown's offer to appear in the buff as Cosmopolitan Magazine's first centerfold nude, I did a double take. Horrors, Burt Reynolds was a second choice.

Joe lowered his eyes modestly as he explained his decision. "I just couldn't see it. I mean, I like the picture they made but I couldn't see it for me."

I know that Joe didn't like the popular Broadway play, "Hair." "I thought it was a dirty show," he had said. But somehow I couldn't see him passing up a chance to recline on his famous llama rug, stripped for art's sake. I mean, he took it all off for that razor blade commercial.

I called Dick Schaap, Joe's ghostwriter for his autobiography, "I Can't Wait Until Tomorrow — 'Cause I Get Better Looking Every Day," to see if he thought Joe had fallen out of character when he refused Ms. Brown.

"Joe's not an exhibitionist," said Schaap primly. "He has a moral code like everyone else. The only difference between Joe Namath and other football players is that Joe is totally honest about what he does."

If all this makes it seem there is a Whitewash Joe Namath cult creeping across the land, it certainly hasn't hit Bill Glass yet.

Bill Glass, a defensive end for Detroit and Cleveland before he retired to run an evangelistic group in the Southwest, is hard at work beating the underbrush for evil.

And Joe Namath is one of his targets. In a pulpit-type interview with a San Francisco newspaper, Preacher Glass, who was joshingly called "Elmer Gantry" by less pious teammates during his playing days, said, in effect, "Joe Namath should be concerned with setting an example for young boys who try to copy the football heroes. And I don't think that living with an unmarried woman is a good image for an athlete to project."

That Namath had settled on one woman, married or unmarried, was news to me. And maybe if Bill had kept his revelation quiet, it would have escaped the notice of a few million boys who emulate the lifestyles of football players as reported by the press.

Schaap pooh-poohed Bill's charge. "I know Joe does have a girlfriend. She's a very successful New York girl. But they have separate apartments—at least, at times they do." And he gave a devilish laugh.

But then Joe and his associates are masters of the suggestive phrase as a defense of his flamboyant super-stud image. Maybe they're afraid the public will find out that Joe Namath is really as wholesome as a bowl of hot milk toast.

And heaven forbid, to use one of Bill Glass's expressions, that the illusion be destroyed for Joe's extravagant life-style has attracted as much attention as his considerable talent on the football field.

Stories about that wall-to-wall llama carpeting, which had to be sprayed for fleas instead of being shampooed, have sold as many New York Jet tickets as his touchdown passes and his Super Bowl predictions.

Schaap insists, though, that Joe's two greatest assets are honesty and loyalty: "He's a man with great star quality, but he's kind. The humbler a woman is, the nicer he is to her. He might meet a famous actress and not even notice her. But let a cocktail waitress ask for an autograph, and he'll spend an hour talking to her."

Honest, loyal, modest, compassionate. Really now, Bill Glass, preacher or not, how can you attack a fellow that sounds like a chapter from the Boy Scout Manual? Even if it is the new revised edition.

JOE NAMATH is always in the spotlight, whether he is quarterbacking the New York Jets or being made up for a television appearance. But his playboy reputation is in danger of being ruined by his disclosure that he turned down a chance to pose nude in a women's magazine.

Dog Defense....

Coach Don Duncan's viewpoint about "playing the games one at a time" takes on added significance this week. Kilgore was to be a critical game and the Dogs met the challenge headon. Meanwhile, everyone else was looking ahead to vaunted Tyler and wondering out loud what was going to happen when the two powers collide.

But out of left field has suddenly come Blinn's Buccanneers, a squad that showed they were no slouch when they toppled Tyler last week in Tyler by a 36-14 count. Flashing speed is their strong suit and the Bulldogs will be hard-pressed to stop them when they tangle tomorrow night in Brenham.

The Bucs also boast of last year's scoring leader in Steve Beaird who is second only to NJC's Brooks this year. It'll be Critical Game No. Two, the way it's worked out, and the Dog defense wants to keep that string alive.

Okies Head Stats

NEW YORK (AP) — Oklahoma' second-ranked Sooners, averaging a remarkable 621.0 yards per game, lead the nation's major college football teams in total offense, according to official statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

The powerful Sooners, who have amassed 1,863 total yards in in three games, also lead in rushing offense and scoring. They have rushed for 1,496 yards, a 498.7 average, and scored 169 points, a 56.3 average.

In comparison, their closest rivals are Notre Dame with a 532.0 yard average in total offense, Oklahoma State in rushing with a 410.0 average, and Penn with a 55.0 scoring average. Penn, however, has played only one game.

Columbia, which also has played one game, dominates the defensive statistics. The Lions, 44-0 winners over Fordham, surrendered only a total of 85 yards and held the Rams to minus 12 yards rushing, both low in the nation. The Lions also are the only major team not to have yielded a point.

Rice 'Junkie' SWC's Best

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rice safety Bruce Henley will be pulling for Boston College when it plays Georgia Tech on Nov. 11. So will all the other Owls.

It's all the fault of one Georgia Tech player who — in print — lamented the fact that the Rabling' Wreck had to play "junk" like Boston College and Rice instead of top powers like Michigan State.

Rice Coach Al Conover made the press clipping a prominent part of the Owls' game plan and his "junkies" scored a 36-36 tie with the heavily favored Georgia Tech team that had to battle back to get the draw.

Henley's contribution to keeping the surprising Owl unbeaten going into Saturday's duel with eighth tanked Louisiana State was two pass interceptions, a fumble recovery and a 52-yard punt return.

It earned him The Associated Press Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week honor.

"We really were fired up there's no question about it," Henley said. "Georgia Tech was giving us a raw deal anyway. They were calling us junk and rating us with Boston College.

"They thought they were going to walk over us and they couldn't so we were both upset."

The Owls were so upset in fact, that it was Georgia Tech that had to get in a last minute touchdown and two-point conversion to tie the Owls. It was similar to Rice's tie with Arkansas last year when the Hogs booted a last second field goal for a tie.

"But it was different from Arkansas because we felt we were a better team on just that day," Henley said. "We gave them (Georgia Tech) three easy touchdowns and we were still behind only five points at the half. So I knew we could beat them.

"We made a lot of people notice us that were just sitting around waiting for us to lose. These three games have made us all feel a lot more confident.

"Last year we played some close games and lost. This year we're not satisfied playing close. We have more pride."

And as for the powerful Bengal Tigers, Henley won't make any rash statements like the poor Georgia Tech soul, but he's sure of one thing "They won't walk over us."

Henley picked off six interceptions and returned them 106 yards as a sophomore last season 8 second in the SWC — and his two against Tech gives him three this season. Despite his success, he doesn't concentrate on going for the ball.

"If the chance comes I'll take it," he said. "But I've got too many other responsibilities to remember."

Henley doesn't expect any of the LSU players to call the Owls junkies this week but Henley will be high for another reason — he'd like a victory for his birthday Saturday.

Lee Roy's Upset, So Look Out Pittsburgh

DALLAS (AP) — Lee Roy Jordan takes his losses hard.

It started during his playing days under Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama and has extended through a decade of downs with the World Champion Dallas Cowboys.

For example, after the Cowboys suffered their first regular season or playoff loss after 13 consecutive victories. Jordan hooked it to the country on his day off. Green Bay beat the Cowboys 16-13 Sunday.

"I didn't want to be around people," says Jordan. "I went to see a man about a bird dog. It's an eight-month-old liver colored pointer and I tried him out. I'm kind of a loner after we lose."

Jordan says it's time for the Cowboys to wake up and quit waiting for something good to happen.

"I don't want to depend on other people to help us," says Jordan. "We want to be ready by the time we meet Washington. We sure don't want to lose to them like we did last year and hope somebody else knocks them off."

The Cowboys and Washington are tied with 2-1 records in the Eastern Division of the National Conferene of the National Football League. Washington was upset 24-23 by New England Sunday.

"I think we have to take a big step this week," Jordan says, referring to Sunday's battle with Pittsburgh. "The schedule is there in front of us. We've got to buckle up and get after it."

What about the offense?

"I think all of us have confidence in both quarterbacks (Craig Morton and Roger Staubach)," Jordan says. "We have two quarterbacks capable of winning. A lot of teams go to pot when the second team quarterback is in there. But we know Craig is capable of winning."

Lemon Out As Royals' Manager

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "During the next 10 years I expect to win at least five out of 10 pennants," said Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Kansas City Royals while announcing that Jack McKeon was replacing Bob Lemon as manager of the American League team.

To do that, Kauffman said Tuesday, it would be necessary to etablish continuity of management, which the 52-year-old Lemon would be unable to provide.

However, McKeon, 41, was given a one-year contract "like everyone else in the Royals' organization," he said.

Flanked by the outgoing and incoming managers and Cedric Tallis, executive vice president and general manager, Kauffman told a news conference:

"I want a younger manager," and "I did not want to lose Jack McKeon from our organization."

Deputy Resigns

Navarro County Sheriff Rufus Pevehouse today said he has accepted the resignation of Deputy Sheriff Ronald Moses and that Jerry Shelton has been hired as a deputy to begin work today.

Shelton is the Democratic Party nominee for Sheriff of Navarro County. He defeated Pevehouse in a run-off election during the primary voting period this year.

Moses was recently released from Navarro County Memorial Hospital after having been ill a couple of weeks, according to Pevehouse. He added that Moses' doctor advised him that he should no longer work as a deputy and that the deputy decided to resign.

Moses has some leave time coming, Pevehouse said, and the resignation becomes effective about Oct. 15.

McGary Hearing May Be Rescheduled Again

There is a possibility at this time that the hearing before the Texas Board of Education set for 8:30 a.m. Saturday concerning the suit by Dr. Lester E. McGary against the Corsicana Independent School District Board of Trustees may be rescheduled, CISD Supt. Joe Seale said today.

Seale said he was informed by the board's attorney, Robert Gladney, Wednesday morning that the transcript of the July proceedings before Commissioner of Education J.W. Edgar have not yet been typed and that the attorney for plaintiffs, William J. McKie, may ask for the hearing to be rescheduled as result of this. Seale said McKie has commented that he wants to read the typed report and make sure the proceedings are correctly reported. If he disagrees with the report he will ask for the hearing to be rescheduled.

The case names Dr. McGary, acting in behalf of his minor son, Richard McGary, as plaintiff and the Corsicana ISD Board of Trustees as defendants. The plaintiffs are contesting a decision of the board to enforce a rule which would authorize a teacher to refuse to accept school work which was assigned during a suspension period but delivered after the suspension period.

Jaycees See Refrigerator Safety Film

Jaycee Dennis Donoho presented the film "A Few Minutes To Live" at the noon luncheon of the Corsicana Jaycees Friday at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

The film, prepared by the Refrigerator Service Engineers Society, outlined a few safety precautions to be taken by persons who leave abandoned refrigerators in their homes.

The refrigerators are a constant threat to a child's life when they use them to play in.

A few precautions to take in case they are in the home include taking locks off, chaining the refrigerator and turning the door to the wall, gluing wooden blocks at the top of the refrigerator to prevent the closing of the door and removing the door from the refrigerator.

Children should be taught not to play in or around refrigerators, the film concluded.

In other business Gary Towers, president announced that the Jaycee committee for the Christmas Parade would meet Monday. The Jaycees will participate in Jaycee Intervisitation Oct. 17 in Ennis.
